The Bangor post-office is now undergong the process of reform, that is the reform that displaces competent and experienced officials to make places for Democratic party workers Yesterday, Assistant I ostmaster Cummings, one of the most faithful and experienced officials in the postal service, a gentleman who has labored early and late to give our citizens the best possible facilities, was succeeded by Mr George Hogan, who cannot hope to become familiar with the duties of an ordinary clerk for some months even if he learns the business readily much less the H. N. FAIRBANKS, General gent, duties of the Assistant Postmaster. This is a fair sample of the reform work being carried on under this Administration over which the Mugwumps go into ecstasy, but to the average person it looks very much like the spotis system which was to form no part of President Cleveland's pol cythe policy announced before election.

The Atlanta's Speed | New York Tribune

The Atlanta's trial trip has been a most successful one As originally designed by the Advisory Board a speed of 14 knots or more was contemplated, the Dolphin being expected to develop a speed of 15 knots Secretary Whitney in his ast an mual report stated that the Atlanta's maximum speed was less than 15 knots The official reports of the trial trip have not been published, but it is evilent from statements made by those on board the vessel that the average speed was at least 16 knots was developed at times If these informal statements are sustained by the official reports the vessel must be con

the official reports the vessel must be considered unexpectedly fast. The trial trip was made with the guns on board and with increased displacement. It is eastomary when English or Frent. It is eastomary when English or Frent formsers are sent over a measured mile in pieliminary tests for speed to afford the designers and builders every advintage. The vessels run light with the best and cleanest coal in the bunkers, and are allowed to make short time spurts of speed. The Atlanta's trial trip was made under less favorable conduct one, as she was three for runs of six consecutive hours. The results are practical and highly satisfactory.

The Times Publishes a Letter Attributed to Parnell

Letter Denounced as Forgery.

I.Ondon, April 18. The alleged letter of Parnell, supposed to have been addressed to Egan relative to the Phunix Park mujders, which the Times published as officers of such association?
Seventh—If free transportation is provided for delegates described in question live, may it include members of the immediate families of the delegates?
Eighth—If free transportation on reduced rates is provided for the representative of any one association must the same be extended to all others which are composed exclusively of railroad employes, or application? rars mutuers, which is the rate excitement among all parties. In an interview to-day Clancy, Parnellite member for Dublin county, branded the letter as an infamous concection and declared that it bears inconcection and declared that it bears internal evidence of forgery. He said also that suspicion was already directed against the forger. An Iris' member of Parliament departed for Dublin this morning to compare, the handwriting attributed to Parnell with that of the person suspected.
The lobby of the House of Commons is crowded with members agerly discussing the alleged Parnell letter.

The Letter. on application?

Another application has been made to the Commission on behalf of the Traders and Travellers' Union, stating that the system under which additional allowance of free baggage has been heretofore harof free baggage has been herestore curvided by commercial travellers, subject to written agreement for registry end indemnification, which system the Commission is requested to examine carefully "and advise us if there is any reason why railroad companies desiring to do so should be to the other leaf. The Times suggests that the signature was thus written so it that the signature was thus written so it stated terms, allowance of free bagcould be torn off it necessary. The letter, which is dated simply 15—5—82, without address, is as follows:

Dear Sir—I am not surprised at you These two petitions, presented by highly respectable organizations and raising questions of immediate practical importance, are representatives of a large number of similar applications which have been made to the commission for its postrubtion of the provisions of the act to regulate commerce, is applied to various points at which those provisions touch the tustoms of the past. They have been selected simply as trey indicate the general character of all and enable the commission to announce a certain conclusion.

These two petitions, presented by highly pear Sir—I am not surprised at your friend's anger, but he and you should friend's anger. Comments of the Press.

The Globe commeating on the letter says: Until the horrible accusation that Parnell wrote the letter is proved we shall discredit it.

The Pall Mall Gazette says: Until the authenticity of the letter shall be absolutely proved there will be no need to discuss its contents. these, which reach us by every man, that the impression is generally prevalent that this commission has power to construe, interpret and apply the law as a prelimimetroret and apply and are are are are are continually applied to for decisions in advance as to whether common carriers said to be willing to adopt certain methods of dealing with respect to inter-State commerce may do so without subjecting themselves to the penalties pro-

The St. James Gazette says. The letter is so grave a docucient that it will not do to regard it as genuine utill Mr. Parnell shall be heard from concerning it. Mr. Parnell's friends declare the letter an infamous concedion and deliberate invention to publicly slander the leader of the Home Rule party. They say even on the low ground of expediency, Mr. Parnell would be the last man in the world to write a letter containing such damning admissions. They contend, therefore, that all reason in the case proved the letter to be The St. James Gazette says: The letter

A Forgery on the Face of It pointing for proof to the contents of the document, especially to the writer's warning the person to whom the letter purported to be written flot to disclose the address, while no address is given. The fact that the signature is the only part of the letter in Parnell's writing is, by itself, the Home Rulers argue, proof that the whole thing is a fraud, as, according to them, while it would be difficult to obtain enough specimens of Mr. Parnell's handwriting to enable a forger to imitate it to the extent necessary to successfully palm off a whole letter as his, it is not at all difficult to obtain his signature. Are constantly exposed to danger from Colds, Whooping Cough, Croup, and diseases peculiar to the throat and lungs. For such allments, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, promptly administered, affords speedy relief and cure. As a remedy for Whooping Cough, with which many of our children were afflicted, we used, during the past windry, with much satisfaction. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. For this affection, we consider this preparation the meet efficacious of all the medicines which have come to our knowledge—Mary Parkhurst, Preceptress, Home for Little Wanderers, Doncaster, Md.

My children have been peculiarly subject to attacks of Croup, and I failed to hind any affective remedy until I commenced administering Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. This preparation relieves the difficulty of breathing and ir variably cures the complaint—David & Starts, Chatcham, Columbia Co, N. Y.

I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for many years, and have found it espenally valuable in whooping Cough. This medicine alique mexicalding to the lungs, and quality subdues any tendency to Lung Complaint.

Held on for God's sakol shouted John
"The trees here briten." Hold on for God's sake! shouted John 'The traces have broken," Hold on for God's saked shouled John The traces have broken."

He was right the tough leather was at length worn through by the constant rubbing against the rock and the strain and swaying of the cart on the one side and the dead horses on the other. Round it sput, broadside on the current, and unmediately began to heave over till at last the angle was so sharp that the dead body of poor. Moutisid out with a splash and vanished into the darkness. This relieved the cart, and it righted for a moment, but now no longer beld up by the bodies of the borse; or by the sustaining power of the wind, it began to fill and sink and at the same time to revolve round and round. John realized that it was all up, and that to step in the cart would be ield under water by the chartes they would be ield under water by the chartes they would be ield under water by the chartes they would be about as principal in for assistance in secret Jose to und the water. In the lim hight of the dewn, which was now crooping over the earth he could make out the lime of the left bank of the Vanl the same from which they had started into the river on the previous night. If appeared to be about forty yards away, but the current was running quite six knots and he realized that, burdened as he was, it would be quite impracticable for him to try and reach it. The only thing to do was to keep adout. Luckily the water was wards and he was a strong swimmer. In a minute or so he made out that about fifty paces shead some rocke juitted out twenty yards into the bed of the stream. Then catching Jess by the hair with his left hand he made his effort and desperate one it was. The broken water boiled furiously round the rocks. Presently he was in it, and better still his feet touched, the ground Next second he was swept off them and rolled over and over as the bottom of the river gotting sadily knocked about against the bowlders. Somehow he struggled to he legs, still retaining his hold of Jess Twice he foll and twice he spruggled up again. One more effort—so. The water was only up to his thighs now, and he was obliged to held carry his companion. As he lifted her he felt a deadly sickness come over him, but still he struggled on hill on a man, till at last they both fell of a heart upon a big flat rock, and for a while he remembered no more. Warranted absolutely pure Cocca, from which the excess of Oil has been removed, it has three times the strength of Cocca mixed with Starch arrowroot or Bugar, and is therefore for more coconcil and is therefore for more concent on, conting fers than one cent of cusp. It is delicious, nourishing, strengthouing easily digested, and admirably adopted for invalids as well as for persons to health.

The remely is not a liquid so if or powder coul The Successful Remedy for Nasal Catarrh Must be non nertating easy of application, and one that will, by its own action, reach all the remote sores and ulcerated surfaces The history of the efforts to treat cutarrh during the past few years demonstrates that only one remedy has met these con ditions and that is Fly & Cream Balm

HAY FEVER OF THE AD This a fe and ple reant remedy has mas tered estarrh as nothing clse has ever done, and both physicians and patients freely concede this fact. The more distressing symptoms quickly yield to it and a multitude of persons who have for years borne all the worry and pain that caturrh cus inflict, testify to radical and permanent cures wrought by it Elys Cream Bulm is perfectly southing, excites no dread. dissolves the hardened accumulations, lessens the extreme sensibility of the nerve cent re to cold and all external intitants. and is followed by no reaction whatever
